Re Philadelphia teletype 10/8/70.

Enclosed to the Bureau and Boston are two copies each of articles appearing in "Delaware County Daily Times", 10/9/70, and the "Philadelphia Evening Bulletin", same date.

It is noted the author of the article appearing in the "Delaware County Daily Times" appears to have attempted to write the article in such a manner as to reflect unfavorably upon action by the FBI. Portions of the article are exaggerated, not true, and an overall analysis indicates it is completely unobjective.

The raid in question involved an attempt to apprehend SUSAN SAXE and CATHY POWERS, who participated in bank robberies in Philadelphia, Penn. and Boston, Mass. In the robbery in Boston, subjects shot and killed a police officer.

the arrest of the two girls but needed no search warrant.

Springfield police apparently searched the premises, and when police allegedly found a quantity of marijuana, arrested the four suspects.

They are: Edward Lindsay, 20, of the 290 block Wildwood Avenue; Lansdowne; Edward E. Matthews, 20, of the 100 block Baltimore Pike, Springfield; Mark Hakenschild, 20, of Portola Valley, Calif.; and Jean Zafraios, 18, of the 300 block Park Avenue, Swarthmore.

All were arraigned at 6 p.m. Thursday before District Justice of the Peace Richard L. Connec. They were released on $500 bail each for a hearing at 5 p.m. Tuesday.

THERE ARE two buildings at the Baltimore Pike address, a large home which was once the Elmhurst Nursing Home, and a carriage house behind the larger house.

Both buildings are occupied by students and other young people, including a young attorney. The buildings are rented separately, but both were raided.

The attorney living in the larger house, 25 year-old Robert Hodge, said Springfield police conducted their narcotics search without a warrant, and claimed the four were not apprised of their rights at the time of the arrest.

"They were not informed of their rights, nor were they allowed to make phone calls," Hodge said.

When told of this, Forrester said, "I don't know how he (Hodge) could say a thing like that. Certainly they were told their rights."

Martha Hollinger and Gerard Mare, both 21, and Swarthmore students, recounted the events of the early morning to a reporter as they remembered them.

MISS HOLLINGER said the raid began with agents and police coming through "all the entrances simultaneously."

She said there were three people in the basement kitchen "eating peanut butter sandwiches" when the agents entered and told them all to go upstairs to the living room.

"I guess they woke up the people on the first floor then," Miss Hollinger said, "and they held a gun on one guy when they told him to get up."

Mare said the agents kicked down one bedroom door and "remained in the rooms while we got dressed." Everyone was taken to the living room, and "they wouldn't give us any reason why this was going on," Miss Hollinger said.

"One girl wanted to call a lawyer but they wouldn't let her," she said. "They wouldn't even let people go to the bathroom or get coats."

Mare reported that one agent said, "Why do you want to get a lawyer? You're not under arrest."

AFTER 45 MINUTES, each person was apparently taken aside and questioned by two agents.

"They finally told one girl, when it was all over, that she could use the phone, and it was dead," Miss Hollinger said. She also noted that a list of emergency phone numbers, including those of parents and lawyers, "had been ripped off the wall when we looked for it."

She said one agent said, as he was leaving "Oh yes, we cut the phone wires. That's standard."

She said the agent assured her the phone company would "take care of it," and "about 4:30 a man from the phone company came to fix the wires. At 4:30 in the morning!"

In the wake of the arrests, about 300 Swarthmore College students along with a dozen faculty members, college President Robert Cross and Dean of Men Edward Steach met in the college's student center Thursday night.

Residents of the "Large House," a private off-campus student residence at 101 Baltimore Pike asked support of the college community to keep a pattern of similar police action from developing.

They also asked that nothing be done which would be offensive to the police or the community or which would outrage or polarize other people, and sought support for a campus fund drive today to help defray legal expenses.

Students say raiders cut wires, wouldn't tell motive

Daily Times Staff Writer

SPRINGFIELD — "We are in control of this house. We have taken it over. This is our house now."

These words reportedly greeted about a dozen Swarthmore College students and their roommates Thursday as FBI agents and Springfield police staged an early morning raid on their home at 1001 Baltimore Pike, Springfield, in search of two women wanted for bank robbery in Boston.

The women, from Brandeis University, were not found. The search began at 2 a.m. and ended two hours later.

The students are claiming that:

* The raid and subsequent arrest of four persons on narcotics charges were made without a search warrant.

* Telephone lines were cut before the agents entered the home.

* The residents were interrogated for an hour without the benefit of phone calls to lawyers or parents.

* They were not told the reason for the raid until after they had been held in their living room for 45 minutes.

* * *

SPRINGFIELD Police Chief Lester G. Forrester said Thursday night, when told of the charges, "We didn't need a search warrant for what we were searching for. The FBI took care of that."

Forrester declined to comment on the fact that the raid was conducted to search for fugitives, not for narcotics.

The FBI would not comment on any aspect of either the raid or the charges, but reportedly told the students at the time that it had a federal warrant for

Some 300 Swarthmore College students met on the campus last night to protest a raid by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents on a house on Baltimore pike, in Springfield Township, Delaware County, early yesterday morning.

Attending the two-hour "rap session" in the student's social center were college professors and officials, including Dr. Robert D. Cross, college president. Dr. Cross made no comment on the students' charges.

2 Suspects Sought

The FBI and Springfield police raided the four-story house at 1601 Baltimore pike near Lincoln ave. at about 2 A. M. in a search for two young women wanted for the Sept. 23 holdup of a Boston bank in which a policeman was killed.

The suspects were not found, but Springfield police arrested four persons, including a Swarthmore student, when marijuana was found in a carriage house behind the main residence.

The FBI has been seeking Susan Saxe, 21, of Albany, N. Y., and Katherine A. Powers, 20, of Denver, Colo., subjects of federal warrants naming them as participants in the $25,000 Boston robbery as well as the Sept. 1 holdup of the City Line Branch of the Bell Savings & Loan Association, 7575 Haverford ave., in which $6,000 was taken.

Robert Hodge, 25, a lawyer who said he is one of 16 young persons living in the house, a former nursing home, said he had just gotten to bed when a knock came at the door.

He said a voice called, "Come out, the FBI is here."

He said about 20 FBI agents entered the house and herded all the occupants into the living room. He said they had no search warrant and told the residents they didn't need one.

Hodge said the agents searched all of the rooms and even broke a hole in the fourth floor ceiling to search the attic.

He said the agents also had cut the telephone wires to the house. A Bell Telephone Co. repairman showed up later and said he was to fix the damage at the expense of the Occupants Warned

Hodge said the occupants were assigned to sit in the living room, were told the house was surrounded and warned not to try to get away.

Then, he said, each occupant was shown photographs of the two women suspects and asked if they had seen them. Hodge said some of the residents had never heard of the robbery case or the search for the women, believed to be hiding in the Philadelphia area.

Hodge said some of the residents of the house are Swarthmore College students.

Discussion of the events became heated at times and there was disagreement about what should be done. Some students called for direct action, but others cautioned calm.

Professor Talks

Daniel Bennett, a philosophy professor, said it was not the individual police or judges who were harassing people but blamed an "apparatus used by people who perceive the national interest in a certain way."

A student spoke up: "While we're defending ourselves against stereotyping, at the same time we're stereotyping the pigs." He was given a round of applause.

Dr. Cross told the students that Dean Edward Skeach would look into the arrest of the college student and see to it that he get his job.

The four arrested were identified as Edmond Earl Matthews, 20, of the Baltimore pike address; Jean Zafiratos, 18, of Park ave. near Yale ave., Swarthmore; Edward Wagner Lindsay, 20, of Wildwood ave. near Long Pine, Langsdwina, and Mark Conroy Harkenschie, 20, of Portola Valley, Calif.

They were arraigned yesterday afternoon before Springfield District Justice of the Peace Richard L. Conneen on charges of illegal possession of dangerous drugs and narcotics.

Conneen held the four in $500 bail each for a further hearing at 5 P. M. Tuesday.

The Swarthmore students broke up their meeting at about 11:30 last night and formed two committees.

One, an "anti-repression" committee, has as its purpose to investigate what may be done in general about repression. The other committee will seek ways to raise funds for the defense of those arrested in the raid.

Students say raiders cut wires, wouldn't tell motive

By RON HURT
Daily Times Staff Writer
SPRINGFIELD -- "We are in control of this house. We have taken it over. This is our house now."

These words reportedly greeted about a dozen Swarthmore College students and their roommates Thursday as FBI agents and Springfield police staged an early morning raid on their home at 1001 Baltimore Pike, Springfield, in search of two women wanted for bank robbery in Boston.

The women, from Brandeis University, were not found. The search began at 2 a.m. and ended two hours later.

The students are claiming that:

- The raid and subsequent arrest of four persons on narcotics charges were made without a search warrant.

- Telephone lines were cut

before the agents entered the home.

- The residents were interrogated for an hour without the benefit of phone calls to lawyers or parents.

- They were not told the reason for the raid until after they had been held in their living room for 15 minutes.

SPRINGFIELD Police Chief Lester G. Forrester said Thursday night, when told of the charges, "We didn't need a search warrant for what we were searching for. The FBI took care of that."

Forrester declined to comment on the fact that the raid was conducted to search for fugitives, not for narcotics.

The FBI would not comment on any aspect of either the raid or the charges, but reportedly told the students at the time that it had a federal warrant for the arrest of the two girls but needed no search warrant.

Springfield police apparently searched the premises, and when police allegedly found a quantity of marijuana, arrested the four suspects.

They are: Edward Lindsay, 20, of the 200 block Wildwood Avenue, Lansdowne; Edward E. Matthews, 20, of the 100 block Baltimore Pike, Springfield; Mark Hafkenschiel, 20, of Portola Valley, Calif., and Jean Zafiratos, 18, of the 200 block Park Avenue, Swarthmore.

All were arraigned at 6 p.m. Thursday before District Justice of the Peace Richard L. Conneen. They were released on $500 bail each for a hearing at 5 p.m. Tuesday.

THERE ARE two buildings at the Baltimore Pike address, a large home which was once the Elmhurst Nursing Home, and a carriage house behind the larger house.

Both buildings are occupied by students and other young people, including a young attorney. The buildings are rented separately, but both were raided.

The attorney living in the larger house, 25-year-old Robert Hodge, said Springfield police conducted their narcotics search without a warrant, and claimed the four were not apprised of their rights at the time of the arrest.

"They were not informed of their rights, nor were they allowed to make phone calls," Hodge said.

When told of this, Forrester said, "I don't know how he (Hodge) could say a thing like that. Certainly they were told their rights."

Martha Hollinger and Gerard Mare, both 21, and Swarthmore students, recounted the events of the early morning to a reporter as they remembered them.

MISS HOLLINGER said the raid began with agents and police coming through "all the entrances simultaneously."

She said there were three people in the basement kitchen "eating peanut butter sandwiches" when the agents entered and told them all to go upstairs to the living room.

"I guess they woke up the people on the first floor then," Miss Hollinger said, "and they held a gun on one guy when they told him to get up."

Mare said the agents kicked down one bedroom door and "remained in the rooms while we got dressed." Everyone was taken to the living room, and "they wouldn't give us any reason why this was going on," Miss Hollinger said.

"One girl wanted to call a lawyer but they wouldn't let her," she said. "They wouldn't even let people go to the bathroom or get coats."

Mare reported that one agent said, "Why do you want to get a lawyer? You're not under arrest."

AFTER 45 MINUTES, each person was apparently taken aside and questioned by two agents.

"They finally told one girl, when it was all over, that she could use the phone, and it was dead," Miss Hollinger said. She also noted that a list of emergency phone numbers, including those of parents and lawyers, "had been ripped off the wall when we looked for it."

She said one agent said, as he was leaving, "Oh yes, we cut the phone wires. That's standard."

She said the agent assured her the phone company would "take care of it," and "about 4:30 a man from the phone company came to fix the wires. At 4:30 in the morning!"

In the wake of the arrests, about 300 Swarthmore College students along with a dozen faculty members, college President Robert Cross and Dean of Men Edward Skeath met in the college's student center Thursday night.

Residents of the "Large House," a private off-campus student residence at 101 Baltimore Pike asked support of the college community to keep a pattern of similar police action from developing.

They also asked that nothing be done which would be offensive to the police or the community or which would outrage or polarize other people, and sought support for a campus fund drive today to help defray legal expenses.
